Summer 2015

For connoisseurs of luxury travel

A Camper &amp; Nicholsons International publication

Foreword

With summer on the horizon, we have angled our compass to the Mediterranean - a classic cruising ground that shows no sign of losing its appeal. From the ever chic St Tropez, to the glamorous and historic coastline of Amalfi, we cover all the best places to cruise plus things to do while you are there.

Head further north this summer for seas less travelled and explore the remote and fascinating seaboard of Scandinavia. We bring you just a few of the highlights of this stunning coastline which offers scenery on an epic scale best enjoyed from the decks of a superyacht.

Talking of epic, our TIME + TIDE supplement showcases some truly unique summer accessories, and we profile a selection of must-have products to take on board. If wine is your choice of tippable, our feature about on board wine cellars will no doubt appeal. Today's technology means wine can be stored in optimum conditions on superyachts to ensure it travels well, meaning you can stock up on your favourites.

This issue also gets up close and personal with the owner of the ice-breaking megayacht, Legend, as he profiles her build; the captain of the super sailing yacht Silencio on life at sea; and an insight into life in the galley with the chef on board the motor yacht Blush.

With a successful charter season on the cards, Camper & Nicholsons, for one, will certainly be raising a glass to the onset of summer.

2014 OVERVIEW

Looking back at 2014, the overall picture is largely positive and indicative of continued stability within the industry. In terms of hard numbers, 2014 was a strong year for both the order book and brokerage market, with new order numbers near equal to 2013, plus notable growth in the brokerage market. The health of both sectors is equally important as solid numbers of brokerage sales prevent the oversupply of existing yachts for sale from slowing new build activity. As such, 246 new orders of 24m+ yachts and 502 sales is a tangible reflection of renewed client confidence in the industry.

At the close of the first quarter of 2015, the early indications are that the year to date is holding consistent with 2014's performance, particularly in the brokerage sector. At Camper & Nicholsons we have had a significant number of deals closing during the first quarter. Brokers report that the market has been highly competitive and that they are seeing increased interest from buyers. Good quality, low-priced yachts are not having any trouble selling as buyers are keen to take realistic opportunities they consider a good deal. A moving market, with plenty of yachts currently under offer, has created a real feeling of confidence throughout the industry for the rest of the year ahead.

ST BARTHS BUCKET REGATTA

Sponsored by Camper & Nicholsons, the 20th edition of the St Barths Bucket Regatta was held over a perfect weekend in March with all the excitement, fun, drama and camaraderie that the event has become renowned for. Camper & Nicholsons representatives were on hand to cheer on the 54m (177) Parsifal III and the 43m (141) Koo. Brokers, clients and their guests enjoyed the event with several owners and charterers participating in the actual racing, while others enjoyed spectating from shore and taking part in the many social activities that surrounded the weekend event. Congratulations to the winners of their individual classes.

NEWPORT BUCKET REGATTA

Back again, even bigger and better than before, St Barths sister event, the Newport Bucket Regatta, will be hosted in August in the beautiful setting that is Narragansett Bay and Rhode Island Sound. With an impressive 250+ vessels entering, this famous invitation-only race is, once again, set to shine as one of the leading regattas in the US.

LONDON YACHT, JET & PRESTIGE CAR SHOW

London opened its doors to the London Yacht, Jet & Prestige Car Show for the first time this April. Held at the Old Billingsgate Thames side venue in the heart of the City, the show attracted an impressive turnout for its first year. Visitors were treated to displays from the world's leading luxury yacht builders and brokers, yacht charter agents, yacht and interior designers, private jet manufacturers, jet charter agents, luxury car manufacturers and distributors, and a whole host of luxury goods and service companies. Camper & Nicholsons brought its yachting expertise to the show and hosted a stand showcasing a full range of its services.

SHOW FEVER STATESIDE

Spring is always a busy time of year for the US yachting industry, with a number of high-profile shows falling at the start of the year, including the Miami Yacht & Brokerage Show and the Palm Beach International Boat Show. Exhibiting a fine array of superyachts, these shows attract some large numbers of HNWTs and plenty of serious clients from both sides of the Atlantic.

Mid-February's Miami show proved to be an impressive event and was an opportunity for buyers to evaluate, first hand, what the market has to offer. Leading the field was Camper & Nicholsons, displaying an impressive range of yachts. Later in the spring and further up the coast, the Palm Beach International Boat Show was among the five US yachting events with over US$1 billion worth of yachts and accessories on display. Camper & Nicholsons continued to demonstrate its strong presence in the US and some of their finest offerings were on display. Both US shows saw Camper & Nicholsons hosting a number of evening events and cocktail receptions for VIP guests.

72ND MONACO GRAND PRIX

The principality of Monaco becomes a racetrack during this famous Formula One event from the 21 - 24 May. The most exclusive harbour in the world plays host as the drivers take to the track around the winding streets, lined with crowds. Every year, Camper & Nicholson's hosts its own private viewpoint, away from the hustle of the crowds, for guests and VIPs to enjoy the race. With eminent co-sponsors such as Bentley and Fred Paris already confirmed, this exclusive event is set to be the best yet.

MYBA CHARTER SHOW, GENOA

Some of Camper & Nicholson's finest yachts made their way from their winter cruising destinations to rendezvous at the annual MYBA

Charter Show in Genoa, Italy. From 27-30 April, Genoa's seafront was lined with a stunning showcase of superyachts from the charter fleet including the 49.9m (163') Resilience, the 43.63m (143') Silver Wind, the 40m (131'4) Thumper, and the 40m (131') Princess K. An industry-only event, the show not only attracts the finest yachts, but also the most experienced brokers from the charter industry. Camper & Nicholson's had a number of its charter experts situated at the port for the duration of the show, inspecting the market's offerings and meeting the crew of the charter yachts.

SAVE THE DATE - CANNES YACHTING FESTIVAL AND MONACO YACHT SHOW

As with previous years, the month of September brings about two of the industry's biggest shows: the Cannes Yachting Festival, held between 8-13 September, and the Monaco Yacht Show, held between 23-26 September. Both shows are famous for exhibiting a stunning display of the industry's largest yachts, as well as hosting a wide range of social activities. As usual, the Camper & Nicholson's team will be on hand to welcome you to its hospitality stands at the centre of these events.

PALMA SUPERYACHT SHOW

The end of April saw the Palma Superyacht Show open its doors to a host of industry professionals and keen yachting enthusiasts, as well as existing and new buyers. There were over 37,000 visitors to the event. With the recent amendments to Spanish Matriculation Tax for charter yachts over 15-metres, the event marked a positive start to the charter season in the region. The show featured a fantastic line up of yachts, and Camper & Nicholson's was at the forefront of the event with eight yachts on display and an array of exclusive social events hosted for VIP guests.

MAKING A NAME FOR THEMSELVES

The World Superyacht Awards 2015 announced the names of its finalists at the beginning of the year, and the results confirmed that Camper & Nicholson's has a number of fantastic yachts in the running to receive a highly regarded Neptune trophy. Shortlisted in the most competitive year of these awards yet, those in the running include the 58m (190'3) Illusion V for the Best Displacement Motor Yacht of 500GT to 1,299GT award; the 43.63m (143'1) Silver Wind for the Best Semi-displacement or Planing Three Deck Motor Yacht - 45m and above award; and the 40m (131'4) Thumper for the Best Semi-displacement or Planing Three Deck Motor Yacht - 30m to 40m award. Michael Payne, Camper & Nicholson's CEO, offers his congratulations to the owners of this year's finalists: "To be shortlisted for a World Superyacht Award is a notable achievement in itself, particularly this year as the industry has witnessed the launch of some extraordinary yachts, but to be a finalist is to be congratulated. For a yacht to be in the running demonstrates a vessel that not only boasts superior design and innovation, but also exceptional quality and performance." The winners of the prized Neptune awards will be announced at the World Superyacht Awards 2015 gala evening in Amsterdam in May.

— PLANNING AHEAD

Those looking for a marina with exceptional concierge services in the Caribbean should head to Virgin Gorda, where the Yacht Club Smeralda Marina Virgin Gorda has been wowing guests with its above-and-beyond attitude. Following in the footsteps of its older sister in Sardinia, the Yacht Club Costa Smeralda, the marina and its clubhouse team offer the highest level of entertainment to guests with activities and events to bring guests together to enjoy a specialised programme. The club's base allows racing year-round, and the recent Loro Piana Superyacht Regatta & Rendezvous proved that this stunning British Virgin Island is one serious contender on the cruising map. For those who cannot wait for the winter season in the Caribbean, the Yacht Club Costa Smeralda's superyacht season kicks off in Porto Cervo with the Dubois Cup at the end of May, followed by the Loro Piana Superyacht Regatta in early June.

— PALMARINA, TURKEY

Perfectly situated on Turkey's Bodrum peninsula, Palmarina is the perfect spot for those looking to enjoy Turkey's beautiful coastline or for those crossing across to the Aegean Sea and the Greek Islands. The marina offers a multitude of facilities, including a Billionaire Club, the world famous Nobu and Cipriani restaurants, a beach club, duty free shopping and a state-of-the-art fitness centre. For those looking for a year round home port, Palmarina is unique in the region for providing secure berthing for yachts up to 100-metres, haul-out facilities and a boatyard providing extensive technical services.

— CHRISTOPHE HARBOUR

Located in the heart of the Eastern Caribbean, the marina at Christophe Harbour opened earlier this year. Created by a superyacht owner for fellow superyacht owners, the new marina is a homeport with a difference. Located on the south-eastern side of St Kitts, in between the fashionable islands of Antigua and St Barths, the marina is surrounded by over 2,500 acres that encompass six beaches and natural bays. Christophe

Harbour itself offers an inviting resort community incorporating a Park Hyatt St Kitts hotel, a Tom Fazio golf course and beachside pavilion club, as well as boasting staff comprising experienced superyacht captains.

— Set sail on an adventure through the unspoilt waters of the Indonesian archipelago, discover the cruising grounds of Myanmar, or venture to the remote islands of French Polynesia - the hottest yachting destinations on the world-cruising map

THE COAST IS CLEAR

Raja Ampat

The majestic Raja Ampat archipelago comprises four main islands and thousands of small islets. Lying off the north-western coast of New Guinea, these largely uninhabited waters provide ample opportunities to find peaceful anchorages where you will see few signs of life, except for your own party and perhaps a few local rangers. Under the water, however, it is a very different story - these waters are home to the country's largest marine national park and a huge number of world class dive sites.

French Polynesia

Nowhere on earth does the word 'tropical' apply as it does to the islands of French Polynesia, with Tahiti and her accompanying Society islands at the very heart. A sprawling region made up of five well separated archipelagos, French Polynesia provides some of the most remote and spectacular cruising grounds on earth. Their landscapes range from rainforest carpeted volcanic mountain peaks to white sand beaches, cascading waterfalls, sheer cliffs, blue lagoons and coral reefs. From the Society Islands to the Tuamotu Atolls, and the lesser known Marquesas, Austral Islands and Gambier Islands, no other cruising ground is quite as varied and remote.

Mergui Archipelago

Located at the most southern tip of Myanmar, the Mergui Archipelago offers culture and adventure in equal measure. A place free from bars, restaurants and beach clubs, it is the ideal getaway for those wishing to explore nature's most beautiful and unspoilt surroundings. Comprising over 800 islands, the tranquil cruising grounds are alive with amazing flora and fauna and with promises just waiting to be discovered by diving enthusiasts.

— NEW ZEALAND'S FAST & FURIOUS

Silencio took first place in 2015's New Zealand Millennium Cup. The swift 50m (164') sailing yacht from Perini Navi battled it out against some of the world's fastest performance sailing yachts to cross the finish line first. This year was one of its best for the famous superyacht regatta and with plenty of action on the water, the event showcased yacht racing at its finest.

Built in 2001, Silencio is the third build to emerge from the successful 50m series by Perini Navi. Extensively refitted in 2012 by Perini Navi in Viareggio, she also boasts a stunning custom interior by the award-winning designer Christian Liaigre.

— AWARD WINNING FARE

Chefs from the Camper & Nicholsons charter fleet have been impressing judges at boat shows and scooping top prizes in the fiercely fought crew competitions. Craig Stevens, Head Chef on board the 67.5m (221'5) motor yacht Icon, won top spot at last year's Antigua Charter Show's Chef Competition. Stevens, alongside his talented sous-chef Martin Parsons, prevailed over their peers with a brilliantly executed menu, comprising inventive dishes such as scallop and cauliflower pannacotta and Newlyn crab. Stevens is no stranger to the top spot as he recently won Boat International's Rendezvous' Chef Competition. Stevens' success follows on from Pepijn's - Head Chef on board the 63.4m (208') Polar Star - second place in last year's chef competition at the Genoa Charter Show, where he wowed the judges with his natural flair and culinary skills.

Events

FESTIVAL DE CANNES

13-24 May

Now celebrating 68 years at the forefront of the film industry, the ultra glamorous Cannes Film Festival continues to raise the profile of films and contribute towards the development of cinema, boosting the film industry worldwide and celebrating cinema at an international level. Meanwhile, surrounded by a host of private events ashore and on board, Camper & Nicholson's offer the very best selection of charter yachts for the duration of the festival.

FORMULA ONE MONACO GRAND PRIX

21-24 May

Widely considered to be one of the most significant and famous automobile races in the world, the beautiful setting for this challenging track makes it a fantastic venue for spectators. The only place to be is on board a yacht with a trackside position and access to everything that makes Monaco the glistening city that it is.

LOROPIANO SUPERYACHT REGATTA, SARDINIA

2-6 June

Exciting racing, stunning vessels, good competition, a great social scene and the world's most exclusive yacht club all make for one of the most prestigious events on the world's yachting calendar.

LES VOILES D'ANTIBES

3-7 June

Held over the first weekend of June, the regatta promises some fast paced sailing and tough racing, as an expected fleet of about 50 classic yachts gather near the Bastion Saint-Jaume in Port Vauban.

SUPERYACHT CUP

17-20 June

The Superyacht Cup Palma is a fun, yet competitive, regatta for superyachts of 24m (80') and above. The event is perfectly placed for Palma's best bars, restaurants, hotels and shops, and the regatta village provides ample entertainment throughout the week.

PANERAI BRITISH CLASSIC WEEK

18-25 July

Part of the Panerai Classic Yachts Challenge, the Panerai British Classic Week sees vintage and classic yachts coming to race around the UK's Isle of Wight.

MONTE CARLO RED CROSS GALA BALL, MONACO

25 July

Held at the prestigious Sporting d'Eté Club in the Salle des Etoiles, this fund raiser event attracts a glittering guest list of 850 of the world's international elite and celebrities, as well as donors keen to contribute to the Red Cross.

NEWPORT BUCKET REGATTA

27-30 August

The race around Nantucket Sound (pictured below left) has become an annual celebration for owners and their crew looking for an admirable excuse for some days of fine spirited competition, glorious sailing and fun.

VENICE INTERNATIONAL FILM FESTIVAL

2-12 September

Founded by Count Giuseppe Volpi in 1932, the oldest and most prestigious international film festival in the world is famed for bringing both established and emerging talent from over 41 countries.

From art festivals to the noisy grand prix circuits, it is not only the boat shows that attract superyacht spectators. Charter a yacht with Camper & Nicholson's and get closer to the action

Resilience

Stylish and versatile with endless amenities, the motor yacht Resilience ticks all the right boxes.

Resilience has many attributes, but it is her versatility that makes her really special. A cleverly designed layout and spacious interior enables her to accommodate large groups easily - perfect for parties of families or friends. Comfortably sleeping 12 guests in six generous staterooms, Resilience treats those on board to a genuine sense of space and privacy thanks to thoughtfully positioned staterooms: a master suite on the main deck; a VIP suite with fabulous views on the upper deck; and the remaining four double staterooms (two of which can be converted into twins) are located on the lower deck.

Resilience not only has a flexible interior, but she is also beautifully decorated with elegant furnishings, oak wood panelling and Wenge flooring.

A recent refit in 2014 ensures Resilience remains up-to-date and her new, state-of-the-art technologies include iPad controls and a huge hard disk of music and movies. Her inviting deck spaces - housing numerous sun pads, dining areas, Jacuzzi, barbecue and bar - are pretty good too.

After growing up on the Sydney Harbour waterfront, a career in yachting was a natural progression for Captain Angus Biffin, and working on Silencio has seen him take the popular charter yacht around the world to exciting destinations.

Word on the bridge

Where are you now?

Silencio is currently in Auckland, New Zealand, as she has just spent the summer season cruising here. Before that she was in Tahiti, the Galapagos Islands and the Caribbean. This is a very adventurous yacht which has been in the Pacific three times now.

How did you first get into yachting?

I grew up on Sydney Harbour and have always been on the water. I started sailing when I was six, in the Manly Junior class, and I've never really stopped. I sailed skiffs and racing yachts, and now have my own boat as well. I first started my yachting career as a skipper on the Sydney Harbour ferries, before moving to work on superyachts in 2007. I became a captain in 2008, and have worked all around the world on both motor and sailing yachts, joining Silencio in 2011 just after she was sold to her current owners.

What are the best and worst parts of your job?

The best part for me is that I love boating and being on the water, so I really do get paid to do what I love - I'm very lucky. The worst part, which I think many crew will relate to, is being away from home for so long. I'm looking forward to being able to spend time at home in Australia during the yacht's tour in the Southern Hemisphere.

Silencio is a hugely successful charter yacht - what do you think makes her so popular with charter guests?

Of course, there's the boat itself, which is beautiful and spacious, but also the crew, who are definitely the most important element. We have a fantastic crew; they are rock solid. Most of them have been on board for at least two years. They all love what they do, which means that guests also have a great experience. We try to sail Silencio as much as possible, hopefully giving both crew and guests a great time. The boat is very active, and we get to race her a lot in regattas around the world - in fact we won the Perini Cup in 2013, and finished first in the New Zealand Millennium Cup earlier this year - both events were extremely proud moments for the owner, yacht and crew.

What is your favourite cruising ground?

That's too hard. Silencio has been to so many places over the last few years that there's almost too much choice. I would say anywhere tropical, but then that's probably biased as I haven't cruised anywhere like Antarctica or Alaska - yet.

Silencio has already visited so many places in the world. Where are you looking forward to cruising most?

The crew and I are looking forward to spending more time cruising around the South Pacific, as there is such a diverse offering of coastlines, waters and attractions. Our owner really appreciates visiting different places and making the most of all that is on offer.

Where next for Silencio?

Once we leave New Zealand we will sail on to French Polynesia for the season before heading to America for the Fort Lauderdale International Boat Show. After that we will be spending time in the Caribbean and racing in the 2016 St Barths Bucket Regatta, which we are really looking forward to.

SEA+I talks to young chef Jazper Saunders, who is making waves in the yachting industry.

Taste notes

Jazper is only 24 and at the beginning of his career as a talented chef. He has worked in some of the finest restaurants around the world, including Nobu, Maze and La Colombe.

How did you get into cooking?

She will kill me for saying this, but my mum is a terrible cook, so I took the reins in the kitchen from an early age. I remember being given a hand whisk when I was 12 years old, which helped me perfect 'the meringue' early in life.

What is your favourite part of the day?

As soon as I wake up I go to the market, usually around 7am, after which I bake the bread and pastries for the day. This part of the early morning is my treasured bit of calm before the hectic day ahead.

What is your favourite ingredient?

Lime. It is sharp, but sweet, and offers an unbeatable citrus freshness. Limes are particularly good with fish: I finish off my tuna, sweetcorn and chilli tartar with a generous squeeze of lime.

Who would you say is your culinary idol?

The South African chef Luke Dale-Roberts. I was lucky enough to work under him after winning a placement while training at Le Cordon Bleu. His inventive approach to cooking remains a strong inspiration to me.

Have you had many strange requests?

Boiled, blended mince for breakfast. Yes, that was pretty odd.

Where do you see yourself in 10 years?

I would like to own a little restaurant in Spain, perhaps on the beach, serving dishes made with the best local produce, charcuterie and wine. I would like to keep things small and simple, and impress guests with flavours - that would be awesome.

What is your favourite restaurant?

La Colombe in Cape Town is unbelievably good. It was recently voted the 12th best restaurant in the world. The dishes I tasted there were incredible, so it is number one in my book.

What's the best thing about cooking on board a superyacht?

You get to work with the very best produce and every area offers something new: the tomatoes found on the French Riviera are the finest around; Portugal is hard to beat for seafood; and Ibiza's lamb and salt is simply top-notch.

Describe your style

A fusion of Asian and Mediterranean cuisine. The skills and flavours I learnt at Nobu play a huge part in my day-to-day cooking. I am never too far away from a lime or a chilli.

STATELY-STYLE

More than 100 years since its construction, the Grade II listed Foxhill Manor is now available for hire on an exclusive-use basis. Tucked away on the Cotswold's sprawling Farncombe Estate, the eight room property is just a short walk away from its sister property, the well known Dormy House Hotel. There is a dining room for 16 guests, lounge and bar, media room and meeting room, all serviced by Foxhill's housekeeper, butler and private chef.

GRAND RENOVATIONS

The Grand Hotel Tremezzo on Lake Como re-opened in the spring following a massive renovation of its 92 rooms and suites. This renovation also welcomes the T Spa. Branded by ESPA, the new spa will be housed in the 18th century Villa Emilia and will comprise five treatment rooms, a Hammam, nail bar, infinity pool and gym. Dating back to 1910, the family owned hotel includes an all-suite rooftop floor with lavishly appointed suites with their own private terrace, outdoor Jacuzzi, butler service and panoramic views over the lake.

SWIM-ART

Swimming in a work of art is the new experience at Les Sources de Caudalie. Their new indoor 15-metre pool is set within a magnificent glasshouse. The new swimming pool, launched earlier this year alongside 12 new suites, is the work of artist Mathilde de l'Écotais. The photographer-artist has installed a large piece of 'pool art' across the bottom of the pool giving it a golden tone when viewed from above. LAP OF LUXURY

The new year brought with it a new addition to the iconic Brenners Park-Hotel & Spa. Located in the historic German spa town of Baden Baden, the hotel opened its new destination spa. Spread over five floors the new spa includes a sauna, plunge pool, gym, and Hammam, along with 15 treatment rooms. The treatments, focus on four distinct areas combining beauty, detox and nutrition, emotional and medical care. www.villastephanie.com

LAID BACK VIBES

The Nikki Beach Resort & Spa Porto Heli in Greece is the Nikki Beach group's first hotel in Europe. The group have created a boutique property with a lower key vibe than the usual Nikki Beach properties. The hotel has a relaxed and fun atmosphere. The relaxed vibe at the rooftop bar is created by the all-day sounds mixed by the in-house DJ - played at significantly lower volume than at the other Nikki Beach Clubs. ## AN ASIAN IDYLL

Fringed with coral reefs in crystal clear water and covered in dense tropical jungle, the island of Phu Quoc is one of the last undiscovered pearls of Vietnam's coastline. Renowned for its untouched natural environment, friendly locals and fantastic scuba diving and snorkelling, the island is now home to the Salinda Phu Quoc Island Resort & Spa. The first luxury resort on the island, it stands on seven acres of grounds by the sea close to the town of Duong Dong. The resort's commitment to innovation and authentic local traditions is evident throughout the 121 rooms and villas, where the design is an interplay of rustic local heritage with contemporary influences.

DOHA DELIGHTS

Banana Island Resort Doha is Anantara's new property in the Persian Gulf. An alternative to staying downtown, Banana Island Resort Doha feels worlds away from city life. The man-made island is strategically placed just offshore, with regular ferry service to and from Doha's Corniche promenade. The island destination is equipped with a 30-slip marina, PADI dive and water sports centre, swimming pools, waterslides, and sandy beaches. There is also a surf pool with a professional surf instructor on hand. Each of the 141 rooms, suites, and villas has an ocean view, thanks to the island's narrow banana shape. All but the overwater villas have direct beach access. The resort, which is alcohol free, has eight dining options, ranging from Arab meze to European. The menu at the Anantara Spa is equally varied.

INTIMATE HILLSIDE RETREAT

Amandayan is the Aman groups third property to open in China. Set on a hillside above the UNESCO Old Town of Lijiang, Amandayan draws its name from the Sanskrit derived word for 'peace' and 'Dayan', the historic name for Lijiang when it was first established by the ruling Mu family in the 13th century. Traditional courtyard buildings create 35 spacious suites with views over the countryside and snowcapped mountains on the horizon. The design was inspired by its setting, embracing style elements from traditional Nakhi architecture and integrating harmoniously into the town. The carefully preserved Wenchang Palace is set in one of the traditional courtyards dating back to 1725. There are ample dining options for all palates, plus a spa, pool, and library.

SEA+I talks to the experts in their field on how to establish your own on board wine cellar.

Fine wines

WHO

- Riviera Yacht Support
- EGP Fine Yacht Suppliers
- Mega Yacht Services

WHAT

- Focus on four key components: sweetness, umami (savoury taste), acidity and salt. When it comes to wine pairings, consistency is key.
- Spicy wines go with spicy foods, intense wines complement complex dishes, and fresh, light dishes and salads are best accompanied by something light and chilled.
- Always have a selection of well known classics on board.
- Remember that with a tropical climate comes a different demand.
- Provençal rosés are the top sellers when in the Caribbean.

WHEN

- Be sure to try the local wines wherever you cruise.
- Try wines from smaller producers that often don't make it to the export market, and cruising provides a great opportunity to discover and enrich your understanding and appreciation of wines on the advice of local connoisseurs.
- When cruising in the South of France, take advantage of your proximity to some of the finest vineyards and enjoy local Provençal cuisine with a light rosé for lunch.

- For all rosés, always choose the most recent available vintage.
- In Italy there are many more wines to discover. No other country has more to offer in terms of indigenous grape varieties and obscure regions. When cruising further east, try some of the Balkan wines.
- When in Greece, try a white wine from Santorini made from the grape assyrtiko, which is high in acid, peachy and very mineral.

WHERE

- The perfect cellar should be dark, with the right humidity and the right temperature.
- The wine storage area should be cool, with a constant temperature between 10 and 15 degrees Celsius, and humidity between 70 and 75 per cent.
- Bottles should be stored on their sides so that the cork is kept in contact with the wine to prevent it from drying out, which leads to oxidation.
- Light wines are more likely to be rapidly affected through bad storage.
- Vibration is tricky to get around on yachts, but a good rule of thumb is to avoid keeping wine near the engine room.

03

Castello di Casole

Set in 4,200 acres of Tuscan countryside, with stunning views, Castello di Casole dates back to the 10th Century. Previously frequented by Hollywood luminaries, the grand estate has been resurrected from an aristocratic ruin into a village style resort where children can dabble in dough making at the pizzeria, play croquet, or swim in the outdoor pool. The main house of 41 suites was built on the ruins of the castle, with a spa, three restaurants and a spectacular infinity pool, all of which is surrounded by various out buildings that have been turned into exclusive Tuscan farmhouses and villas.

You will love the former wine cellar, now a dramatic spa with barrel-vaulted ceilings and restored stone walls.

Lionshare

One of the best things about a superyacht comparable to the 39.7m (130') Lionshare is her capacity to provide a luxurious, secure and private setting in which your family can spend quality time together. Equipped with fantastic watersports equipment, she even has a performance sailing dinghy so that the whole family can learn to sail (Virgin Islands only), and a qualified dive instructor among her crew. One of her five suites is ideal for a nanny, with a double, single and a Pullman berth for children. While the convivial crew give you a well-deserved break from the children, you can enjoy a massage with the qualified on board masseuse.

You will love learning to dive with the on board dive instructor and massage treatments from the on board masseuse.

Children will love water toys galore, including a sailing dinghy when cruising the Virgin Islands. www.camperandnicholsons.com

La Dolce Vita

Beautiful and intoxicating, Italy's glamorous Amalfi Coast remains as popular as ever. SEA+I seeks out secluded old favourites and the latest hot spots that only the locals know about.

by Miriam Cain

The Amalfi coastline is full of quaint gems awaiting discovery. From the historical city of Naples, a lively, bustling epicentre, with the chic islands of Capri and Ischia just a short trip across the bay - to Amalfi, Positano and Sorrento further along the coastline. All have a wealth of inlets, coves, viewpoints, and row upon row of vineyards and olive groves - the Amalfi Coast provides the perfect backdrop to a truly indulgent charter.

Step aboard your yacht in the bustling Bay of Naples. With a new, no-nonsense mayor in town, Naples is undergoing a major image revamp, so it is worth spending a day exploring the innumerable treasures of Renaissance palaces, baroque masterpieces and Roman remains.

Lying across the Bay of Naples, Capri is every bit the island for the jet set, but there is also an unassumingly intriguing side that adds to its beauty and charm. From its sapphire blue grottos to its highest peaks, indulge in Capri's rich heritage and culture, and follow in the footsteps of the likes of style icons Sophia Loren and Audrey Hepburn. Visit the famous Blue Grotto after 5pm, when all the day-trippers have returned to Naples. In fact, the island really comes into its own after dark, and charter guests can stay ashore as long as they wish. The Marina Grande is one of the hardest marinas in which to obtain a berth, especially during the peak summer months, so it is best to organise your charter as early as possible if you are planning to cruise these islands during July and August.

Capri's neighbouring volcanic island of Ischia has been a Mediterranean holiday destination for aristocrats since Roman times. Known as the 'island of wellbeing', Ischia is famous for its thermal springs and therapeutic spas. To experience the thermal springs in their natural, unrefined environment, head to the south of the island where you can lie in pools of thermal water carved out of rock. Step ashore and browse the boutiques of San't Angelo, or anchor in the sun-drenched bay of Punta Molino for an afternoon of watersports.

After a relaxing night aboard, sail back across the Bay of Naples to the mainland. Ravello's romantic views and charming medieval passageways have inspired some of the great figures of literature and classical music across the centuries. It was the awesome vista at Villa Rufolo, perched high on a cliff top above Ravello,

WHERE TO EAT

Aside from the culture and stunning coastline, the other big draw here is the food. The area has one of the highest concentrations of Michelin-starred restaurants in Italy, but some of the best experiences are to be had in authentic trattorias off the beaten path. Seafood is predictably one of the most popular ingredients, from the classic spaghetti alle vongole, to simple whole fish roasted in the oven with lemon and olive oil, and seafood stews.

La Sponda, Positano

One of the top tables on the Amalfi Coast, the Michelin-starred restaurant La Sponda is set within Le Sirenuse hotel. The cuisine is based on fresh local ingredients inspired by classical Mediterranean dishes. www.sirenuse.it

Da Tommaso allo Scoglio, Positano

Accessible by boat, this family-run beachside restaurant serves Mediterranean cuisine that is both traditional and contemporary, using the freshest, local ingredients. www.hotelloscoglio.com

Overlooking the Gulf of Salerno, the two-Michelin-starred Rossellinis serves dishes that are based on the traditional, punchy flavours of the region. www.palazzosasso.com

Ristorante Eolo, Amalfi

The location of Eolo is enough to merit a visit. The beautiful terrace looks out over the Amalfi Coast. Seasonal dishes with a contemporary twist on Mediterranean classic recipes are served with a heavyweight wine list. Book early to reserve a table on the terrace. www.eoloamalfi.it

Trattoria Da Ciccio Cielo Mare e Terra, Amalfi

One of the oldest restaurants on the coast, the Trattoria Da Ciccio Cielo Mare e Terra has built up a network of the best suppliers in the region, and offers a wide range of fresh local fish and shellfish. The restaurant is famous for its spaghetti with clams. www.ristorantedaciccio.com

Ristorante La Caravella, Amalfi

Tucked away behind the tourist hot spots of Amalfi, La Caravella has recently been awarded with a Michelin star and produces some of the finest food in the area. The wine list includes over 1,500 bins. www.ristorantelacaravella.it

Da Giorgio, Capri

A favourite among locals and tourists alike. Da Giorgio's simple dishes are bursting with flavours. www.dagiorgiocapri.com

Fontelina, Capri

Only accessible by sea, Fontelina's seafood dishes are sublime. www.fontelina-capri.com that Wagner was inspired for the stage design of his opera Parsifal. The Romantic poets Shelley, Byron and Keats, also found inspiration from the impeccably preserved backdrop and terrace views. A sense of faded glory remains with the gardens of Villa Rufolo and Villa Cimbrone, and they are worth stepping ashore for, as is the beautiful 11th-century Duomo di Ravello.

Allow yourself time to venture inland to the ancient city of Pompeii. Buried under tiny stones and ash from Vesuvius in AD79, excavation of this well-preserved city began in 1763. Much of our knowledge of the Romans and their way of life originated from Pompeii. Ancient alleyways, once fresh with archaeologists' excavation dust, are now well-trodden pathways, yet the sheer magnitude of it remains awe inspiring.

As you cruise towards the sparkling bay and the iconic cliff face of Sorrento, the sea shimmers beneath the dormant yet still formidable Mount Vesuvius in the background. The narrow, winding cobblestoned streets of Sorrento are lined with vendors, but even when packed with tourists Sorrento still retains a certain charm. That said, it is so busy during peak summer that it is best avoided altogether. Embrace the wraparound views of the Bay of Naples from the cliff-top terraced walkways of the Museo Correale di Terranova. For those who have worked up an appetite from walking, take a detour to the Excelsior Vittoria's 'Bosuet' terrace and bar, whose guestbook boasts many famous names including Richard Strauss, the Prince of Wales (who later returned as Edward VII), Sophia Loren and Luciano Pavarotti.

On day four or five, cruise across the Gulf of Salerno to the charming town of Positano. At the peak of the Dolce Vita era, Positano rivalled Capri for jet-set glamour and the town is still popular. Drink in the views or simply watch the passing parade of jet setters striding through the cobblestoned streets. The buzz centres around the Marina Grande, where restaurants and bars line the curve of grey shingle sand.

For the best anchorage around Positano, head to Li Galli, an archipelago of three small islets just off the coast where, according to Greek mythology, the Sirens attempted to lure Ulysses to his death. Enjoy the last rays of the evening sun on board - bliss on this convoluted stretch of coast. Early evening, step ashore to Il San Pietro di Positano and dine at the hotel's Michelinstarred restaurant. The famous terrace is one of the best places for a sunset aperitivo. Another prime aperitivo spot can be found at Le Sirenuse's Champagne & Oyster Bar.

A gentle cruise eastwards towards Amalfi takes you passed some impressive scenery. The coastline is dominated by stunning villas and Saracen defence towers that speak of the coastlines' grand maritime past. Here you will also see the Monastero Santa Rosa. After more than 10 years' restoration work, the 17th-century former monastery has opened as a luxurious hotel with a stunning spa. Step ashore for a treatment in the stained-glass ice cave with Santa Maria Novella products.

In its heyday Amalfi was a major seaport, a great prize for the Saracen and Norman invaders whose influences are reflected in its food as well as its architecture. The town is no larger in size than neighbouring Positano or Ravello, but the whole coastline was named after it because of its history. Home to wealthy Italian merchants, sacked by Pisans and destroyed by an earthquake, Amalfi was a maritime republic rivalling Pisa, Genoa and Venice. At its core is Piazza Duomo, from which a flight of stairs sweeps to an immense cathedral whose façade overlooks the stunning coastline below. Stretch your sea legs and take the stepped footpath that leads over the hill to Atrani, a fishing village from where you can take the tender back to your anchorage.

Further south lie the Aeolian Islands and Sicily, ideal for an extended charter. They can easily be combined with an Amalfi coast itinerary and accessed during an overnight crossing from Amalfi to Stromboli. Created by volcanoes, two of which are still active (Stromboli and Vulcana), the Aeolian Islands have been inhabited since the fifth millennium BC. The islands have the air of a place where time has stood still, which, combined with a glittering nightlife, attracts the Milanese yachting crowd. Sicily itself lies across the Messina Straits and is the ideal place to disembark and spend a few days ashore exploring the island's beautiful temples, colourful mosaics, vast archaeological remains, historic buildings and, of course, Mount Etna and its natural park.

Camper & Nicholsons can create a unique charter along the Amalfi Coast and through the Aeolian Islands. For more information, contact your nearest charter broker. See page 6.

From their sleepy fishing villages to medieval castles, the Baltic nations provide an abundance of charter experiences. Spend time ashore in the cosmopolitan city of Stockholm followed by a cruise down Sweden's glistening eastern coast; cruise the dramatic fjords of Norway, appended by a few days exploring the alluring coastline of Denmark and its islands; or discover the natural wonders and vibrant cities of Finland. And for those looking for a more adventurous charter, the spectacular coastline of Iceland provides an intriguing backdrop with dramatic scenery.

Sweden

Sweden is at the centre of Scandinavia's yachting scene. A coastline dotted with cities like those of Stockholm and Gothenburg, where surprisingly warm waters are a treasure trove for any cruising itinerary. Often referred to as the Venice of the North, the fairy-tale city of Stockholm is spread across 14 islands connected by bridges, with a cobblestoned Old Town and a smattering of elegant parks. Spend a few days exploring the lively city, with its Scandinavian architecture, fairytale castles, museums and historical attractions, before boarding your yacht in the Port of Stockholm. Cruise south to Gotland, the largest island in the Baltic, enjoy breathtaking scenery, and perfect waters for all manner of water sports. Further south, at the tip of Sweden's coastline, the stylish city of Malmö offers charming waterfront districts, a dynamic city centre with cafés and restaurants, and modern design stores, for which Sweden is famous. Cruising up the west coast you will come to cosmopolitan Gothenburg. The second largest city in Sweden, the city boasts numerous restaurants, cafés and bars, and designer boutiques. The coastline between Gothenburg and the Norwegian border is one of Scandinavia's most scenic. Intertwining medieval towns with stretches of wilderness, and thousands of small islands, the waters teem with marine wildlife.

BEST FOR...

Fishing, swimming, kayaking and hiking.

DON'T MISS...

From fashion to furniture, Sweden is known for its design. Step ashore to the design shops in Malmö.

Denmark

Norwegian Fjords

The dramatic fjords of southwest Norway are what draw most charterers to explore these majestic cruising grounds. Springtime sees the snow retreat to the mountaintops, leaving meadows and forests scattered with waterfalls and streams that flow to reach the magnificent fjords. Located on the southern tip of Norway, the waterfront capital Oslo is in a spectacular position overlooking the Oslofjord. Buffered by islands and woodlands, it is an ideal starting point for a cruise to Stavanger and then up to Bergen, the gateway to Norway's famed fjords.

The most popular itinerary for any cruise in Norway begins in Bergen. Spend a day ashore exploring the city's medieval architecture, restaurants and cafés, before embarking on a cruise around the fjords, including the famed Hardangerfjord and Sognefjord. Depart from Bergen's colourful harbour and cruise through the deep blue fjord waters of Sognefjord, passed sheer cliffs and cascading waterfalls. Stretching more than 127 miles from the sea to the mountains of Jotunheimen National Park, the coastline is dotted with farms and villages.

Take a detour into striking Geirangerfjord, now a UNESCO World Heritage site, before continuing to the northern part of Norway and the Lofoten Islands. Part of the Arctic Circle, the approach to the islands offers beguiling views of the towering peaks of the Lofoten Wall, a 200 mile range of mountains. The tranquil islands are a delightful contrast to the buzzing energy of the Arctic capital city, Tromsø. An ideal disembarking point, the lively city is also where you might catch the northern lights (in colder months).

BEST FOR...

Finland

Finland has been attracting seafarers with its natural wonders and vibrant cities for hundreds of years. Surrounded by the Baltic Sea wherever it doesn't touch Russia and Sweden, the cruising grounds are ideal for an action packed cruise, with activities aplenty including fishing, hiking and kayaking. The top quarter of the country lies in the Arctic Circle so the sun does not set at the northernmost point for more than two months during summer. The active waterfront capital of Helsinki is rich in artistic heritage, and its surrounding waters patterned with bays and offshore islands.

BEST FOR...

Action packed itineraries.

DON'T MISS...

To the west of Helsinki, the Turku archipelago boasts more than 20,000 islands perfect for yachting.

Bordered to the east by the Baltic Sea and to the west by the North Sea, the waters surrounding the coastline of Denmark offer excellent sailing conditions. The coastal landscape is peppered with fishing villages and long, white sandy beaches. Inland the country is sprinkled with vibrant towns comprised of Renaissance castles, centuries old half timbered houses and churches that hark back to medieval times.

BEST FOR...

Cuisine - thanks to the 'Noma effect' Copenhagen now has numerous Michelin-starred restaurants, including the world's best restaurant Noma, the pioneer of New Nordic cuisine.

DON'T MISS...

Copenhagen is undeniably hip, from the restaurant scene to the chic Danish boutiques, the city has it all. Its cultural scene is pretty exciting too. Castles, sculpture galleries, marble churches, vintage theme parks... there's almost too much to do.

Iceland

INTERTWINING MEDIEVAL TOWNS WITH STRETCHES OF WILDERNESS, AND THOUSANDS OF SMALL ISLANDS, THE WATERS TEEM WITH MARINE WILDLIFE

The rugged and remote beauty of Iceland has been attracting explorers for centuries, but today it is emerging as one of the latest cruising hotspots. Dotted with glaciers, dramatic fjords and ice caps, the coastline is home to plenty of wildlife.

BEST FOR...

The truly adventurous.

DON'T MISS...

The vibrant city of Reykjavik.

*The climate and weather in the Baltic is very much influenced by Atlantic weather disturbances, thus it can be changeable throughout the year. ### UPDATED ICONS

Breitling celebrates the 100th anniversary of the first independent chronograph push-piece this year. To mark the occasion of this milestone invention that changed the face of the chronograph, the brand has introduced a limited series of its Transocean model, with an exclusive new Manufacture Breitling calibre and an unusual design reinterpreting the famous 1915 push-piece with the Breitling Transocean Chronograph 1915. This year Chopard presented a reinterpretation of a classic from its L.U.C. Haute Horlogerie collection, the L.U.C. Regulator model. Combining the elegance of the new L.U.C. case with the horological prestige of the Chopard regulator movement, the latest L.U.C. piece has been awarded COSC certification as well as the Poinçon de Geneve quality hallmark www.chopard.com

To mark the 75th anniversary of their most iconic collection, the Portugueseer (previously known as Portuguese), IWC pays tribute to the original Portugueseer with the launch of the Portugieser Hand-Wound Eight Days Edition "75th Anniversary". Inspired by the original

Portuguese first introduced in 1939, everything from the old-branded typeface to the watchface has remained true. IWC's in-house 59215-calibre movement reliably supplies the watch with energy for eight days, at which point begins the pleasing ritual of winding the watch. www.iwc.com

With the new Calatrava Pilot Travel Time Ref. 5524, Patek Philippe pays tribute to its heritage in pilot's watches. The new Calatrava features the patent Travel Time mechanism, popular with frequent flyers because it can simultaneously display the time in two different time zones. The Calatrava is powered by the self-winding calibre 324 S C FUS movement with the innovative Spiromax balance spring. www.patek.com

Complicated complications

By their nature, watch complications have always catered to the various needs of the owner, and the continuing race to develop multi-complication pieces means exponential variety. From jumping hours to patented moon phases to split second chronographs, some of the most elaborate complications to date have been launched this year by the master watchmakers.

The new Breitling Chronoliner pays tribute to the popular 1950s and 1960s Chronoliner models. With a chronometer-certified chronograph to measure flight times, a second timezone display in 24-hour mode to juggle time differences around the planet, and a scratch resistant high-tech black ceramic bezel, the new Chronoliner reinterprets the spirit of aviation in an original and timeless style.

www.breitling.com

The IWC Portugieser Annual Calendar closes the gap between the perpetual calendar and the simple date display. The new IWC-manufactured 52850 calibre has two barrels that keep the new function supplied with ample energy and still has enough left for a seven-day power reserve. The newly developed annual calendar shows the month, date and day in three separate, semi-circular windows, and the switching mechanism automatically takes into account the differing lengths of individual months.

www.iwc.com

Jaeger-LeCoultre's Duomètre Sphérotourbillon Moon comes with a very complicated movement boasting a bi-axial Sphérotourbillon, with an added moon-phase indicator. The Sphérotourbillon is one of Jaeger-LeCoultre's finest inventions and is based on two major innovations – Duomètre (dual wing concept) and the Sphérotourbillon (regulating organ), also known as bi-axial tourbillon. The dual wing concept means that one mainspring and gear train is driving the hours, minutes and seconds, and a second mainspring and gear train is driving the moon-phase indicator. Both mainsprings are linked to their own power reserves and when fully wound, the watch will run for 50 hours. The moon-phase is extremely precise and when properly adjusted it is designed to remain accurate for a full 3,887 years. The extremely complicated watch is limited to just 75 pieces.

www.jaeger-lecoultre.com

Blancpain have introduced the complication of a grand date to their classical Villeret Collection with the Blancpain Villeret Grand Date. The first big date in the Villeret line, the Grand Date is built on the Calibre 6950, an automatic movement with two mainspring barrels for a 72-hour preserve. The movement has 285 components, among them 35 jewels. Two side-by-side windows afford optimal readability, maximizing the legibility of the date while at the same time enabling an instant change at midnight.

Movements on display

Often a watch's intricacies are hidden away, but the past decade has seen more and more watchmakers revealing their movements on display. TIME+TIDE reveals the latest horological masterminds beneath the skeletonised dial.

James Bond Limited Edition Seamaster Aqua Terra, Omega

A watch for the adventurous type, the limited-edition (15,007 pieces) James Bond Seamaster Aqua Terra is powered by the new Omega Master Co-Axial calibre 8507 and is resistant to magnetic fields greater than 15,007 gauss. Inspired by the Bond family coat of arms, the symbol is repeatedly interlocked on the watch's blue dial. Among the most striking elements is the oscillating weight of the movement visible through the sapphire crystal caseback and cut and shaped to resemble a gun barrel. Transocean Chronograph 1915, Breitling

A century ago Breitling was one of the very first brands to offer a wrist chronograph. Marking the 100th anniversary of the innovative chronograph push-piece, Breitling have launched the Transocean Chronograph 1915 (also featured in Updated Icons), which is inspired by timepieces of their past. Vintage themes run throughout the Transocean 1915. Its dial is particularly notable with its old-school logo. The limited-edition (1,915 pieces) mono-pusher chronograph uses a new in-house calibre, the Breitling Calibre B14, which employs a two-tiered double-column wheel chronograph mechanism. With no winding rotor, the display caseback gives you a generous view of the unusual movement.

Royal Oak Offshore Selfwinding Tourbillon Chronograph, Audemars Piguet

Few watches are as instantly recognisable as the Royal Oak Offshore. The ultimate sports timepiece, the Offshore was first launched in 1993 and was an evolution of the Royal Oak. The supersized, Royal Oak Offshore Selfwinding Tourbillon Chronograph is an evolution on the original, with a new movement created entirely in-house. Comprising 335 parts, the Calibre 2897 is a masterpiece - its automatic winding system driven by a peripheral oscillating weight made from satin-brushed platinum. With its sleek black looks, eight trademark polished steel hexagonal screws nestled within the recesses of the black ceramic bezel, carbon case, ceramic and titanium push-pieces, and rubber strap, the new Royal Oak Offshore has a contemporary feel.

Ocean Commitment Bathyscaphe Chronographe Flyback, Blancpain

Reinforcing Blancpain's support for oceanic environmental cases, the Ocean Commitment Bathyscaphe Chronographe Flyback is the first limited edition in a series of timepieces that Blancpain will donate €1000 of revenues from each sale to various initiatives. The underwater chronograph features Blancpain's latest in house movement, the F385. This entirely new column-wheel-controlled flyback chronograph is unlike most diving chronographs, which paradoxically forbid chronograph use underwater and require that the chronograph pushers be locked down when the watch is submerged. The Bathyscaphe Chronographe Flyback is equipped with sealed chronograph pushers allowing use of the chronograph during dives to a depth of 300 metres. The chronograph itself incorporates a flyback function that greatly simplifies operation, particularly useful for divers' decompression stops. www.blancpain.com

Luminor Submersible 1950 3 Days Chrono Flyback Automatic Titano, Panerai

The two new submersible models from Officine Panerai, with the Luminor 1950 case in brushed titanium, have an automatic chronograph calibre with flyback function. Available with a rotating bezel of titanium or black ceramic with a diameter of 47mm, the professional underwater models are water resistant to a pressure of 30 bar (approx. 300 metres). The iconic design of the case is integrated with an element whose historic origins go back to the model created by Officine Panerai in 1956 for the Egyptian Navy. As seen on Blancpain's Bathyscaphe Chronograph Flyback, the Luminor Submersible 1950 3 Day Chrono Flyback Automatic also allows for the chronograph hand to be set back to zero at the push of a button, and to ensure the simplest and clearest possible reading, the chronograph minute and second hands are both positioned centrally on the dial. Both versions house the P.9100 calibre that guarantees a power reserve of three days. www.panerai.com

Gold highlights Marine Diver, Ulysse Nardin

Everything about the Marine Diver evokes the marine world in which Ulysse Nardin is steeped. From the anchor emblem displayed at two o'clock, to the wave motif dial, to the ornamentation on the bezel, and the solid caseback engraved with a boat surrounded with the inscription 'Conquer the ocean', the Marine

Diver is both a diving instrument and a fine sports watch to be worn on board. Water resistant to 300 metres, it features a uni-directional rotating bezel to prevent any accidental adjustment to the dive time. Available in 18ct gold mounted on a rubber strap, the latest Marine Diver is powered by the self-winding calibre UN-26 with a power reserve of two hours. ## Aquaracer 300, Tag Heuer

Originally launched in 1982 as an all-round sports watch, the Aquaracer is one of the most popular timepieces for professional yachtsmen. The new Aquaracer 300M collection (named after its 300-metre dive capacity) exemplifies the line's performance qualities more than ever, but is also refined and elegant. The latest model launches the Aquaracer 300m Calibre 16 Chronograph. The restyling is characterised by a new uni-directional rotating bezel that is flat bottomed rather than pointed and numbers are engraved rather than lacquered. It is UV-resistant and designed to cope with extreme temperature changes and shocks. www.tagheuer.com

Oceanographic 4000, Hublot

Launched in association with the Oceanographic Museum of Monaco, Hublot's Oceanographic 4000 is able to withstand the pressure exerted at a depth of 4,000 metres. The most extreme dive watch on the market, the Oceanographic 4000 features a vast, 48mm case, a screw down back and a sapphire crystal face that is 6.5mm thick in case the diver should test it to its limits (unlikely when the record stands at 332.35 metres). SOLEMATES is the ultimate 60-metre luxury charter superyacht proudly launched by Lürssen in 2010. Equipped with the latest technologies and fitted out with a contemporary interior by Glade Johnson, she offers a truly modern ambience.

Solemates

Solemates offers fun in the sun for everyone, with an incredible range of toys that include: waverunners, underwater SeaBobs, diving equipment, fishing gear, golf clubs with biodegradable balls, tandem kayaks, remote-control racing sloops, wakeboards, water skis, a floating water trampoline, and inflatable towable toys.

With tri-level decks, Solemates offers two levels of alfresco dining on both the main aft and sky lounge decks. The sun deck provides comfortable seating, an outdoor bar and expansive sun pads surrounding the Jacuzzi. Central to both decks, a protected area serves as a gym by day and disco complete with lighting and sound system by night.

Strong, rectangular shapes with soft, luxurious fabrics and natural grained woods are used throughout the interior décor on board Solemates. The main salon features several seating arrangements for conversation, and a formal dining area for up to 12 guests.

The sky lounge offers a more casual environment, featuring a full bar, space for games and expansive corner windows imparting incredible seascapes and abundant natural light.

Utilising custom software, guests can order refreshments, and control each room's climate, entertainment, lighting and blinds to their personal specification with a swipe on one of the 14 iPads.

The spacious main deck master suite offers panoramic views with a comfortable seating area, mahogany desk and spa-like marble en suite master bath complete with a jetted tub and large walk-in aromatherapy shower. The lower deck offers four equally sized spacious guest staterooms with extra large vertical viewing portholes, while the upper deck hosts the generous VIP stateroom.

In conversation with megayacht owner Jan Verkerk

Legend

For Jan Verkerk, owning not just one but two megayachts is his business. SEA+I talks to Verkerk on the challenges he faced transforming Legend into the first A1 icebreaking superyacht in the world.

by Miriam Cain

You already own the explorer vessel Sherakhan, what made you take on the extensive project of transforming Legend?

During the past few years I have had the opportunity to explore Antarctica on board Sherakhan, a superyacht that I refitted in 2005. My experiences allowed me further insight into the expertise required to cruise in such remote locations, so I wanted to create a vessel that could go anywhere in the world, but also provide the luxuries that have become standard in the superyacht industry.

What made you choose the vessel that has now become Legend rather than starting a new build project?

Not only was Legend built by a quality Dutch shipyard, she was built as an A Class Icebreaker - the highest rating for an ice-classed ship. She had already been transformed into an explorer superyacht by her previous owner and had been a highly successful charter yacht for a number of years. I also liked the history that accompanied Legend. She was built for the Soviet Union during the Cold War and has seen active service. This shines through her personality - that cannot be acquired in the build of a new yacht.

How has your experience in converting Sherakhan helped with the rebuild of Legend?

What I learnt in the years spent transforming Sherakhan into the mega yacht that she is today - and the subsequent years of owning and running her as a charter business - have proved invaluable in my attitude and knowledge for the rebuild of Legend. From creating and adapting a reliable engine room, to safety features, low noise levels, high-end air conditioning systems, vibrations, stability and even where to locate certain areas such as the galley and crew mess, are all of utmost importance when rebuilding a yacht of any size, let alone a 73.5-metre. All of these have been fine-honed on board Sherakhan and are now perfect on board Legend.

In 1995 Verkerk entered the world of superyachts with the 37-metre motor yacht Jaguar. After six successful years of charter he transferred the knowledge he had learnt to the rebuild of the 69.95-metre Sherakhan (ex Princess Margaret, an abandoned training vessel for Dutch merchant sailors). Fully SOLAS regulated and with the same papers and classifications as a passenger ship, Sherakhan is one of only a handful of superyachts that can operate as a yacht but carry up to 26 guests. Finding his niche in the market, Verkerk has taken Sherakhan to some of the world's most remote cruising grounds, including Patagonia and Antarctica. Such adventures were just the beginning of the creation of Legend.

What have you changed in the rebuild of Legend?

Everything except the hull and main engines have been changed. Working with Icon Yachts and Diana Yacht Design, we have literally rebuilt the vessel.

What unique additions have you made?

Legend now boasts a fully certified helicopter platform, including refuelling systems. She also features a submarine for three people that can be used to explore the underwater world of Antarctica. In addition to the impressive submarine, will be tenders, and water toys including everything from snow scooters to wave runners, ice diving equipment, as well as equipment for the warmer waters she will explore. In addition, we have extended her stern, which now boasts a swim platform and swimming pool.

What are your plans once she is launched later this year?

We will head to Antarctica as we have a charter booked during the Christmas period and our plans are to remain in Antarctica until the end of February. After this, the days shorten and start to close in, and the weather is less predictable, so we will work our way up South America to the Caribbean. We need to be in Greenland by May for further charters. We will stay in the Arctic region throughout the summers for charters around the Baltic before heading back to Antarctica for Christmas again. My plan at the moment is to do this year-on-year, and to follow the Polar summers.

And finally, what makes Legend so unique?

Legend is the only ice-breaking yacht in the world allowing guests to travel anywhere they would like. I wanted to create a luxury vessel that could make all itineraries possible and in Legend we have done this and more - anything and everything is possible on board.

“I WANTED TO CREATE A VESSEL THAT COULD GO ANYWHERE IN THE WORLD, BUT ALSO PROVIDE THE LUXURIES THAT HAVE BECOME STANDARD IN THE SUPERYACHT INDUSTRY”

Little Black Book

Camper & Nicholsons showcase some of the newest and most advanced yachts available on the brokerage market

It has been widely reported that the overall picture for 2014 was largely positive and indicative of continued stability within the industry. Both the order book and brokerage market were strong, and the brokerage market in particular saw notable growth, with 502 yachts sold compared to 414 in 2013. This is a tangible reflection of renewed client confidence in the industry. The largest value of listed yachts on the worldwide brokerage market were sold by Camper & Nicholsons, showing that listing your yacht with Camper & Nicholsons is the right choice. With 1837 yachts currently listed on the brokerage market, those looking to buy should instruct the expertise of a good broker. Camper & Nicholsons brokerage team have an excellent understanding on the best the market has to offer. Supported by a highly experienced team, with all the latest tools and a selection of the best yachts in the fleet, Camper & Nicholsons brokers continue to exceed clients expectations, determined to find the best deals the market has to offer.
